

TPAD

A simple and cost-saving tool that automates preparation of transfer pricing documentation

TPAD helps with the preparation of local transfer pricing files by taking an intelligent and automated approach to the process

An intelligent and cost-effective approach

Globally, transfer pricing documentation compliance requirements have increased with respect to format and timing of preparation.

With TPAD – KPMG own developed transfer pricing tool – we use technology to rethink your existing transfer pricing documentation process, allowing your company to free up resources, while remaining compliant and efficient, undeterred by the rapid changes in the transfer pricing landscape.

The dynamic tool helps with the preparation of local transfer pricing files and is capable of generating documentation very fast, while minimizing potential errors induced from manual handling of large data batches.

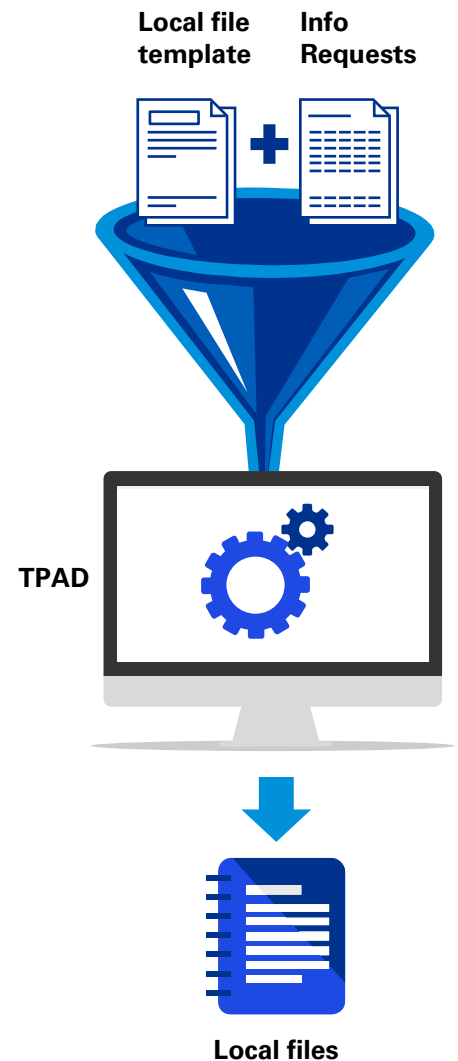

A flexible solution with a strong track record

Since TPAD was developed five years ago, our team has assisted numerous multinationals across industries and today generates hundreds of transfer pricing documentations every year.

With its intuitive interface and its handling of well-known formats (i.e. Word and Excel) TPAD is simple to apply by non-IT professionals and can either be used by your tax department or by our team.

For many organisations, TPAD has meant the transition towards automation and a more cost efficient preparation of their transfer pricing documentation.

TPAD process:

Advantages of using TPAD

Use of a standard template

Leverages from "economies of scale" to automate the population of information into multiple documentations on the basis of a standard template.

Clear audit trail

Simplification of cooperation between central TP and local organisation for information gathering ensures a clear audit trail.

Flexible tool

Possible applications beyond transfer pricing (I/C agreements, etc.)

Cost optimising

A more cost efficient way of processing transfer pricing documentation

Easy to use

Intuitive interface works with well-known formats (i.e. Word and Excel) and allows for easy use by non-IT professionals.

Customisation

Work with company-specific template/letterhead.
