CAMBODIA

Cambodia has been named a success story in attracting global investors despite its relatively small-scale domestic investment opportunities.

The contributing factors to this success are mainly the country's pro-business policies which have led to an influx of foreign direct investment into infrastructure, real estate and construction, manufacturing (primarily garment and textiles) and tourism.

The country, with its young and vibrant workforce also has competitive advantage in capturing a greater share of global manufacturing, especially from multinationals seeking a lower cost base or simply daunted by the challenges of doing business in China.

Yet, challenges exist as Cambodia looks to maximize the benefits of integration by expanding manufacturing.

The government will need to maintain macroeconomic and political stability, build world-class infrastructure, intensify focus on workforce skills, and improve the lack of transparency in the legal system. Other priorities will involve creating the right set of incentives, loosening foreign investment restrictions, and providing greater access to financing for Small and Medium-sized Enterprises (SMEs), which play an outsized role in the country's economy, to scale up.

Managing these priorities can be highly challenging for an emerging economy like Cambodia. However, the benefits will contribute to a safe and sustainable ecosystem for business entities and cross-border opportunities.

KEY COUNTRY FACTS

Cambodia is a developing market economy with liberal policies that promote trade and foreign investment. Its business climate can remain challenging but opportunities can be found in several sectors, in particular in agriculture, food, garments, tourism, and construction and real estate. The country's economic growth over the next two years is expected to remain strong, driven in part by tourism activity and fiscal expansion¹.

OPEN MARKET ECONOMY

Cambodia is one of the fastest-growing economies in the region, albeit from a small base. Between 2000 and 2014, it averaged 7% growth due to healthy performance in real estate and construction and garment exports².

Agriculture remains by far the largest employer, but the country's growing textile industry accounts for the majority of Cambodia's exports. Tourism is also a major industry as visitor numbers rise due to the increased openness of the country and drawn by attractions such as Angkor Wat, a World Heritage Site.

Cambodia is keen to attract higher volumes of foreign investment and has developed liberal trade and investment policies to create an open business environment. There are few restrictions on which sectors foreign investment can be directed towards. As the country is classified as a Least Developed Country, it is eligible for duty free or preferential export access to many developed economies including the EU and US.

To stimulate foreign direct investment (FDI) inflows, 21 Special Economic Zones (SEZ) have been approved, providing benefits including tax holidays, zero rate VAT, and import duty exemption for raw materials, machinery and equipment. The primary authority responsible for SEZs is the Cambodia Special Economic Zone Board (CSEZB).

DRIVING GROWTH

Cambodia has set its sights on becoming a developed nation by 2050 and recognises that economic diversification, strengthening of country competitiveness and enhancing productivity are key to realising this vision³.

Political stability

- Political stability has improved in recent years, although tensions may rise in the run-up to the 2018 general election.

Good governance

- This is a priority and the government will promote it through legal and judicial reforms, fighting corruption, public administration reforms including decentralisation and deconcentration and reform of the armed forces.⁴

Workforce

- Cambodia has one of the youngest populations in Southeast Asia, with about half of the population under the age of 25. Around 200,000 young people enter the jobs market each year, providing a large pool of potential employees for investors.
- Skilled positions can be hard to fill as workers lack basic skills and the government needs to provide more vocational training. According to some analysts' estimates Cambodia will need an additional 35,000 engineers and 46,000 technicians by 2018 to maintain its current growth rate.

POSITIVE GROWTH⁹

In 2017-20 the projected acceleration in economic growth, to an annual average of 7.6%, will be driven by domestic demand. The economy is based primarily on private consumption, which accounts for around three-quarters of GDP. Incomes will continue to rise rapidly from a low base as productivity rises and the development of higher-value sectors, such as electronics manufacturing, gains traction.

The decline in the level of household indebtedness over the past few years to more moderate levels bodes well for consumption activity. The proportion of indebted households fell to 31.6% in 2014, well below the peak of 38.3% in 2010.

The outlook for investment growth also remains positive. Cambodia's good relations with China suggest that it should be in a strong position to access the capital that China is making available for overseas infrastructure projects under initiatives like its Belt and Road Initiative.
