A new approach to VAT Recovery

Are you recovering all that you are entitled to?

Half of businesses recover only 50% or less of the foreign VAT they incur

50%

have stopped claiming VAT in some countries

Why?

find procedures for refunds generally difficult to contend with

“the amounts incurred are not worth the trouble”

“administration is too difficult”

Companies that do business in the European Union are often entitled to recover the value-added tax (VAT) paid on certain types of business expenses and purchases of goods or services. However, every year, large amounts in recoverable foreign VAT are left unclaimed.

Did you know?

The Council European Directive 86/560/EEC, known as the “13th Directive” was adopted and has been especially designed for non-EU companies wishing to recover VAT incurred in an EU Member State in which they do not, and are not required to have, a local VAT registration.

The Council European Directive 2008/09/EC has been especially designed for EU companies wishing to recover VAT incurred in a different EU Member State.

New technology means new VAT opportunities

KPMG's market leading approach is based on a combination of data analysis and an automated process designed to minimize the manual tasks needed to submit VAT refund claims.

Using proprietary technology, a company's credit card and/or expenses system data can be analyzed and a VAT Opportunity Report created. The report identifies potential VAT recovery amounts and targeted invoices.

The first step is an analysis of a company's credit card and/or time and expense system data to create a VAT Opportunity Report. This report quantifies the VAT opportunity by country and type of spend.

KPMG VAT professionals manage the VAT refund claims from submission to refund and can analyze the gap between the VAT incurred and VAT recovered to identify methods to improve your overall VAT recovery performance.

Based on the VAT Opportunity Report, a target list of desired invoices is created to avoid time consuming manual invoice review and to quickly prioritize what actions need to be taken to maximize VAT recovery.

Our automated VAT recovery solution is used to process the invoices, to run quality checks and to generate highly accurate VAT refund claims and formatted information that we can centrally submit to European tax authorities' portals (in the case of intra-EU refunds).

Our periodic reporting allows you to follow the status of the refunds from submission of the claims to tax authorities' decision.

Our automated process can identify when proper documentation is missing by comparing collected invoices and target data, driving efficiency in the retrieval of high-value missing invoices directly from vendors.
