

How Brexit-ready are you?

Brexit risk assessment

Brexit is looming. With the government making clear that there will be no extension to the transition period, our future relationship with the EU will begin on January 1 2021, with or without a trade deal. When we emerge from the COVID-19 restrictions, we will inevitably operate in a changed business environment and as a result, businesses are revisiting their Brexit plans.

Whatever the outcome of the trade deal negotiations, there are considerations and risks to manage across all corners of your organisation.

Our comprehensive approach covering the 15 areas below will assess your Brexit risks and identify gaps. As most businesses now have a Brexit plan, this provides assurance in relation to the areas that are already well covered and develops a prioritised roadmap for those areas that require additional work before 1 January 2021.

Our specialists have already worked together to prepare many businesses for the new trading conditions next year and we are therefore focused on the most important practical steps.

How our risk assessment can help

Road-testing your Brexit plans

It's vital to challenge and review your existing plans. Do your current impact assessments drill down far enough?

Spotting your off-radar risks

Our Brexit risk assessment quickly identifies the gaps you may have missed. How effective are your risk mitigation plans?

Building a readiness roadmap

Providing clarity on what needs to be done and when will help you proportionately allocate your resources.

Roadmap and next steps

We develop and agree a project plan with you from the outset, establishing objectives, key stakeholders, roles and responsibilities and a defined timeline. This ensures clarity and agreement on the key aspects of the project and buy-in from both sides from day one.

We employ a combination of stakeholder interviews, workshops and a review of existing documentation to understand and map your key flows and risks. We conduct a risk assessment against our 15-box diagnostic model and extensive Brexit risk experience.

We identify any gaps and weaknesses and provide assurance on the areas that are well covered. This informs the development of a Brexit roadmap, clearly setting out priority actions to mitigate risks. All of these deliverables are pulled together into a comprehensive report, which will act as your 'Brexit Bible' in readiness for 1 January 2021.
